BEER BEER EVERYWHERE AND NOT A DROP TO DRINK!

Getting intoxicated was not an option for Hygenic's installation engineers when they refitted 19th century tiled fermenting rooms at Leeds' famous Carlsberg UK brewery.

The expert team fitted UPVC 3mm food safe Thermopanel to the walls and ceilings of the rooms responsible for fermenting 1,000 gallons of beer in 24 giant two-storey vessels.

Building services engineer Mel Bentham, who is due to retire this summer after 42 years at Carlsberg UK, said: "The carbon dioxide fumes produced by the fermenting process can be overpowering, so the guys had to be carefully monitored.

"It didn't slow them down too much though. They were fast, flexible and adhered strictly to the highly stringent health and safety regulations – a really good service."

There was however some opportunity to sample food, drink and entertainment at Scarborough's biggest hotel – The Grand – when Hygenic's engineers refitted preparation and serving areas within the kitchen.

Keeping the hotel functioning normally during the 2-week project was a key priority, so Hygenic's team actually lived-in at the 276-bedroom hotel, working through the early hours of the morning on the upgrade.

Maintenance manager Jason Beedham said: "The lads were great to work with – really friendly and helpful.

"Their work has transformed our kitchens and made a significant contribution to the hotel."

STREAMLINED HYGENIC

Hygenic (Clad and Clean) Ltd is not only open for "business as usual" it's streamlined and better than ever, say directors Trish and Geoff Ryan.

"Since relaunching under our new name – but with all the core people who built our solid reputation – we have moved to larger premises and have bolstered our 24-hour service across the UK," he said.

"We are still as passionate about customer service and providing the personal touch as we were when I founded the business in 1989," said Geoff.

"Our DIY sales have also grown by 25 per cent in the last three months alone.

"The name change from Hygenic Installations in no way affects material guarantees given on our work over the past fifteen years and all our contracts – with major names WM Morrison, Carlsberg UK, McDonalds and many more – are continuing as normal.

"The directors would just like to thank all our customers for bearing with us over the past few months. We look forward to further successful partnerships working in the future."

MORE REASONS TO SHOP AT MORRISON'S

Yorkshire-based supermarket giant Morrison's has just made itself even more available by taking over Safeway's 400 stores throughout the UK.

Yorkshire-based supermarket giant Morrison's has just made itself even more available by taking over Safeway's 400 stores throughout the UK.

The company is currently in the process of opening new-build supermarkets in Swansea, Knottingley, Denton near Manchester and Hamilton in Scotland.

Hygenic MD Geoff Ryan said:

"We have worked for Morrison's for the last thirteen years, so far fitting our unique UPVC Thermopanel to kitchens and food preparation areas in over 100 stores.

"I take pride in personally overseeing all the Morrison's contracts from the initial project start through to final inspection prior to store openings.

"The current new stores and conversions are well underway with our workforce working hand-in-glove with contractors and Morrison's personnel alike.

"The Hygenic staff would like to congratulate Morrison's on its continued success. We are proud to be part of the team working behind the scenes to maintain their distinctive design and "a nice place to shop" appeal.

HE WEARS RED BRACES...

With his Mickey Mouse ties and unique brand of good humour, Hygenic's contracts manager Walter Burd needs little introduction.

Having trained at the university of life – in the Royal Navy, in quality control for a large carpet firm, and as a Yorkshire pub landlord – Walter's experience and expertise have made him an asset to Hygenic for the last nine years.

And the good news is this 60-year-old granddad has no intentions of hanging up his braces for at least the next five years.

"I'm having too much of a good time," he says. "I'm working for a great company dealing in a perfect product and loving every minute of it."

Walter joined Hygenic, after ten years as landlord of the Jacob's Well pub in Bradford. He had spotted an opening for marketing Thermopanel to pub cellars and kitchens.

In his first year he introduced 12 Whitbread pubs to Thermopanel and stripclad planks, going on to sign deals with holiday company Haven and the 40 Tom Cobleigh food pubs throughout Lincolnshire, Yorkshire and Nottinghamshire.

He now plays a major role in logistics and project manages all Hygenic's contracts with WM Morrison – ensuring work is on schedule and to budget – as well as dealing with independent high street bakers and butchers throughout the country.

So what's his secret of success? "There isn't one," he insists. "I just treat everybody equally well and do the best I can for them, no matter how large or small the contract.

"I have a real pride in my job and I believe in being totally honest and straightforward – oh and I've never been late for work in 42 years!"
